THRIVING

Join the CAMO Symposium 2026 for an engaging evening exploring the evolving landscape of cancer survivorship. As more patients live longer after cancer, oncologists are increasingly challenged to address long-term toxicities, quality of life, and survivorship care in everyday practice.

Co-chaired by Dr. Scott Berry, Dr. Stephen Welch, and Dr. Christine Brezden-Masley in collaboration with CAMO and WINC-ALINC, this symposium will highlight modern survivorship care, chronic toxicities, psychosocial wellbeing, AYA perspectives, and emerging models of care across Canada.

Through expert-led presentations and a dynamic, audience-driven panel discussion, participants will gain practical insights they can bring back to their clinics immediately.
